

General Terms

27 Temmuz 2018 Cuma 10:25

Tightly Coupling: If two component has dependent each other via Impl. In case impl change with another class. It will change

Loosely Coupling: If two component has dependent each other via interface. In case only the interface change will affect.

If we make dependency via interface for two components, we actually do decoupling between two components.

If we separate Data Access Logic from Business Logic, Business Logic Object delegate data access to Data Access Object.